Congress: Just A Big Friendly Fraternity

WASHINGTON -- It isn't easy to understand how Congress operates unless you understand the club-like atmosphere that pervades both of its houses. The members may fight bitterly over pending legislation and display blind partisanship at its worst; but the fighting is almost always impersonal, and the camaraderie which binds the members together is seldom broken.

Bailey-Appointed Finance Board Hit by Senate Group

Committee Demands Refunding Board Executive Refunding Contract

21 CHANGES ASKED

Committee Approval Carries With It Long List of Amendments

BULLETIN
LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Administration forces won their first roll call test of strength in the senate late Wednesday by rejecting 10 to 25 a proposed amendment to the bond refunding bill which would have proposed that the new issue of bonds be callable instead of non-callable. The amendment was offered by Bratton of Paragould.

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Completing extended hearings, the special senate committee recommended shortly before noon Wednesday that the senate pass Governor Bailey's 140-million-dollar highway bond refunding bill, after adoption of 21 committee-approved amendments.

The amendments, attached to the draft of the bill which passed the house overwhelmingly Monday, were scheduled for debate on the senate floor Wednesday afternoon.

They were offered chiefly by critics of the administration refunding plan. The principal recommended amendments would:

1. Place refunding in the hands of the 1934 Refunding Board instead of the Bailey-appointed State Board of Finance.
 2. Set interest rates at approximately 3.12 per cent.
 3. Lower the gasoline tax reduction ceiling from 17 million dollars annual revenue to 15 millions.
 4. Require the bonds to be sold publicly.
 5. Require senate approval of any bond sale contract.
- Senator Luke Arnett, Paris, author of amendments intended to substitute the Refunding Board for the State Board of Finance, startled administration supporters on the committee with the contention that the Board of Finance is not now a legal entity, charging that the board could only act under the provisions of legislative enactments.

Senate Opens Debate
LITTLE ROCK.—Delaying a decision on the recommendation to open a floor fight on proposed amendments to the $140,537,000 highway bond refunding bill, the senate refunding committee approved 11 proposed amendments Tuesday. The five most important would:

1. Require senate ratification of any refunding contract entered into under provisions of the measure. (By Abington of Beebe.)
 2. Provide for issuance of three-year maturity non-interest-bearing bonds to be exchanged for 2,253,000 in non-interest bearing road district "B" bonds scheduled to mature in 1949. (By Bratton of Paragould.)
 3. Provide that rate of interest of the new refunding bonds must be not less than one per cent less than the average rate (4.12 per cent) of the ing outstanding bonds. (Kinzey of Magnet.)
 4. Reduce from $17,000,000 to $15,000,000 the annual revenue which 5 1/2 cents per gallon of the state gasoline tax must produce before the gasoline tax may be reduced, also to reduce from $15,000,000 to $13,000,000 the amount at which 50 per cent of all highway revenues will begin going into a bond retirement sinking fund. (Baker of Newport, and Kinzey.)
 5. Provide that bridge improvement districts on the state highway system should receive up to $150,000 annually and farm-to-market road improvement districts should receive up to $140,000 annually from a $2,500,000 allocation for new highway construction. (Majors of Dardanelle, Coleman of Lepanto and Crawford.)

Batter Up!
With pennant campaigns of fever heat, now's the time to go to bat on a baseball quiz. If you miss three parts of questions, you strike out.
1. What teams played in the 1935 World Series? Which won?
2. Who managed the winner?
3. In what city would a game be played if the site were Forbes Field? Griffith Park? Comiskey Park?
4. Who started at first base for the National League in the 1939 All-Star game? Who finished at the same position for the same team?
5. What team won the Little World Series last year? What league did it represent? What team won the American Association pennant.

Stage Coach Will Arrive Thursday

Will Be Met by Mayor Atkins, Robert Wilson and Others

Mayor W. S. Atkins, Postmaster Robert Wilson, President of the Chamber of Commerce B. L. Kaufman and Dr. J. H. Weaver and several young ladies will meet the Stage Coach Thursday afternoon at Luck's Tourist Court and ride in with the mail.

The coach will drive up to the postoffice between 4 and 5 p. m., where it will be given all outgoing mail to New York. A little program of bronco busting will amuse the crowd, if a local bronco buster can be found at that time.

The party of twenty-one people with the Stage Coach will spend the night here and leave early Friday morning for Prescott, Arkadelphia and points east.

Those who want the Special Stage Coach Stamps can get them at the Chamber of Commerce office for 25c each. This stamp will pay postage to New York.

This was the scene at Alton CCC camp Tuesday as Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service, was introduced to a large crowd gathered from over southwest Arkansas for an erosion-control rally. The Silver Trail

Last night,
Down a white walk mused with moonlight.
I saw a silver trail
Left by a snail.
So I, going my quiet way,
Would leave behind
A trail of silver
For those who follow after me to find.
Here, I shall plant a tree in a barren place.
And sometime, against the stars, an elm will shake
Its silver lace
I shall ship this mottled brown root into the soil,
And some day, out of a rose's heart will shine
The face of God.
I shall not trample the spider's web
That sparkles in the grass;
I shall try never to hurt a living thing

Bang disease testing of cattle is getting to be a problem for our Hempstead county farmers due to many trading cattle with other sections. Many of our neighboring counties and states are notified areas for a Bangs disease and our stock must be tested before being moved into these areas.
Several farmers have signified their desire to have Hempstead county tested for Bangs disease at as early date as possible.
To show that we really want the job done it would be well to write Dr. C. D. Stubbs, State Veterinarian, inviting him to come into Hempstead county with the Bangs disease eradication program. When Bangs disease is eradicated a higher percentage calf crop will result and our breeding cattle market will be increased.

price of Irish potatoes has moved

Most mowing machines pull twice as hard as they should, and in addition, they do a poor job of cutting. The barner can make adjustments that will cause the machine to pull much easier, and improve the cutting.
According to information received from Earl L. Arnold Extension Agricultural Engineer, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, the knives register when they are centered in the guards at the extreme ends of the strikes. A test of the register should be made with the tongue at working position—32 inches from the ground at the front end.
The cutter bar is in proper alignment when the outer end is ahead of the inner end from 1 to 2 inches, depending upon the length of the bar.
When the pitman is properly adjusted and all cutter bar parts are set as they should be, the front end of every knife section rests smoothly on the guard plate in position to make a sheer cut. If this is accomplished the guards must be aligned. Alignment is accomplished by bending the guards. Wearing plates are adjustable, but after a few adjustments it is desirable that they be replaced.
The knife holders must fit down snug on the knife without binding. They are adjusted by bending.

The National Farm and Home program through arrangements with the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with State Extension Services and the National Broadcasting Company are broadcasting a series of program on improving the efficiency of dairy cattle.
The main points of emphasis on these program will be the importance of more efficient cows, emphasizing that fewer and better cows could produce our present milk supply at lower costs.

A South Carolina dairyman from Washington, D. C. will be on the National Farm and Home program

Tomato Disease—Observation and reports show that the early tomato crop is seriously damaged in many areas by diseases such as leaf spot, bacterial spot, and fusarium wilt. The first step in controlling these diseases for next year can be taken as soon as harvest is over.

In all tomato fields where disease was prevalent, the vines should be pulled, piled, and burned. This will not eliminate these disease, but will help reduce infection in coming years.
Clean up in the field, plant seed sterilization, spraying of plants in the plant bed and later in the field will be the steps necessary for adequate control.

Pulling and burning of the vines should be practiced even though the grower is following a five- or six-year rotation, as the organisms causing these diseases may live over in the soil 5 to 10 years or may exist on related weed and crop species between the tomato crop years.

Watermelon Wilt—This disease is giving much trouble in some sections of Hempstead County. There is cure and we can only recommend long rotations.
There are some varieties resistant to this but the Agricultural Experiment Station, as yet, is not able to recommend a resistant variety for our section that meets the market requirements.

The fall garden is fully as valuable to the farm family as the spring garden. It is the fall garden that provides vegetables for storage, such as beets, carrots, parsnips, cabbage, potatoes, Chinese cabbage, and turnips.
Since it is difficult to store the early Irish potato crop, a late planting of Triumph, Cobler, or Lookout Mountain can be made in July and August.
These potatoes will mature in cooler fall weather and be in good condition for storing, according to information received from Earl L. Allen, extension horticulturist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. The small potatoes from the early crop, Mr. Allen said, may be used for seed, providing the tubers are placed in a hot, dry cave or other warm room for two weeks before planting. The warm, dry heat will help break the rest period of the tubers, so more of them will sprout after planting.

Many of the "cool season" crops,
such as lettuce, spinach, English peas, and radishes, do not grow well during the hot summer months. Instead of having these crops during the spring and summer only, Mr. Allen said that plantings may be made in August and September for harvest during the cooler fall months.
A late crop of tomatoes will mature

WE, THE WOMEN

The louder Youth howls about what the older generation "owes" it—the less is said about what Youth owes the older generation.
Youth says that older generation owes it peace, opportunity, and some kind of security.
Well, what does Youth think it owes old age? Nothing if Youth's if the plants are set out about July 15. In the southern part of the state, however, short season varieties, such as Gulf State Market, Pritchard, or Bonny Best, may be set out as late as August 1, and will mature before frost.

The fall garden, because the summer months are usually dry, will be more successful if planted on ground that has been clean cultivated throughout the summer. Clean cultivation keeps down weeds that take moisture from the soil, and keeps the soil in better condition to absorb moisture from summer rains.

A low, moist location that might have been too wet for spring garden, might be profitably utilized for the fall garden.

complete disregard of the matter can be taken as an answer.
Here is what is becoming a fairly typical case history. John's mother and father scrimped along for a good many years in order to give John the very best.

Their "security" is spent on John's health and education.
At 22, or 25 if he takes professional training, he is through with his education and on his own.
Instead of trying to pay back a little of the "security" that was spent on him, he indulges his "right" to marry and build a home the minute he can afford it—or before.

If things go hard with his father,
John is secretly pretty contemptuous of him. He doesn't think his father is much good who doesn't provide for his and his wife's old age.

Apt to Forget Parents' Sacrifices
He doesn't consider that his father and mother educated a family with the money that might have made their old age secure.

If either parent has to come to live with him, he isn't very nice about it. He knows every young couple has the "right" to work out their marriage by themselves.
There is no more generous with his time and attention than with his money, where the old folks are concerned.
They bore him—and that is unforgivable.

In only one way does he show that he knows Youth has become a deadbeat in its relation to old age. He says, "No we aren't going to have any children. They are a poor investment."

Atley Donald Wins Twelfth Straight

Yankee Righthanded Rookie Holds Browns to Five Hits

NEW YORK.—(P)—The Yankees' record-breaking freshman star, Atley Donald, scored his twelfth consecutive victory against no defeats as the champions defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 1 Tuesday.

Never in danger of having his streak broken, the young righthander gave the Browns only five hits, the first of which was a single by Billy Sullivan in the sixth inning. He struck out two and walked four.

Joe DiMaggio led the winners with a home run and a single. His homer, his ninth of the season, was a long drive deep into the left field bleachers at least 400 feet from the plate. Red Rolfe hit for the circuit in the eighth.

annually," Dr. Bennett declared in opening his address.

"We are spending millions of dollars annually, and rightfully, I think to withstand foreign invasion or attack. It seems to me though, that we should give a little more consideration to our enemy—soil erosion," the speaker declared.

Dr. Bennett, a pioneer in the study of soil erosion, its cause and its control, reminded that Arkansas agricultural lands are not exempt from this enormous toll. He cited a survey which revealed that between two and three per cent of the farm land had been destroyed for any productive use by erosion and that more than 11,000,000 acres are affected by moderate to severe erosion.

"The man who since 1923 has directed the nation-wide program to conserve soil and the farm resources of water, timber and wildlife sounded a warning that the United States must redouble its efforts 'to defend and conserve the soil and to make adjustments in land economy.' Unless the soil is conserved and land economy changes are made, 'national decadence lies ahead,' he declared.

Dr. Bennett, in discussing some of the things responsible for the extensive erosion damage in the United States, said that "the very vastness of our natural resources gave birth to a false philosophy of inexhaustibility."

In the last quarter of a century, considerable effort has been made in the South to control soil erosion, the service chief said. Experimental work on measuring rainfall runoff and soil losses was instrumental in the development of a new concept of land treatment for the control of runoff and erosion and economic land use. Dr. Bennett pointed out.

"This new concept first found expression in the objectives of the soil erosion service, an emergency organization created in the department of the interior in 1933," he continued. "Briefly stated, this concept is the application of a well rounded, co-ordinated program of erosion control, using all known adopted methods in treating the different kinds of land in accordance with their needs and adaptabilities. Of similar importance is the reduction of the flood hazard, and reorganized land usage to fit the requirements of an economically sound farm enterprise."

Under the program of the soil con-

Although he stands six feet four inches and weighs 210 pounds, the 26-year old Salvo is as quick as a cat in fielding his position. Scouts agreed his major league chance was brighter than that of Fred Hutchinson, for whom Detroit gave Seattle $50,000 and four players.

• THE PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
CHICAGO.—Ray Schalk advises professional baseball to pay more attention to the development of talent.

Schalk is fully appreciative of the American Legion tournaments and those sponsored throughout the country by newspapers, but urges those financially interested in the dodge to do something for players past their 17-year age limit.

Leagues and tournaments should be organized for them, too.

There is a shortage of good young players in the minors as well as the majors and this is especially true of catchers.

"Why," says Schalk, who caught the big league record number of 1721 games for the White Sox from 1912 to '26, "Caddy Hornet, who is crowding '39, is about the top-notch catcher in the National League and Bill Dickey is the only stand-out performer in the American."

"When I was active, the American alone had Steve O'Neill, Cy Perkins, Bill Carrigan, Muddy Ruel, Wally Schang, and Johnny Bauser."

Famous Catcher Would Bring Back Spittball

Nor is the pastime today much better off in other departments.

"There isn't one player in the American Association this season who even approximates the Ted Williams or Whitlow Wyatt standard," asserts Schalk, who was discharged as manager of the Indianapolis club, July 14.

"Kansas City," the Yankee farm, is leading and it isn't any good enough for the American League."

According to Schalk, Vince DiMaggio is still not a big league hitter. He plays one in the groove, but the smarter hurlers feel Yankee Joe's older brother.

Schalk would bring back the spitball to give the pitcher without a good curve more of a chance.

"The club and I just had a couple of different ideas, but Lou Miller and I are still the best of friends," adds Schalk, explaining the breakup of the club executive-manager team that worked harmoniously and successfully through eight years in Buffalo and Indianapolis.

The Indians had copped seven in a row and were in third place when the famous newspaper receiver was let out. Schalk knows just how Gehrig feels.

Schalk, who directed White Sox operations from behind the log in 100 battles in 1938 for 12 seasons, is a spectator instead of a competitor for the first time in 28 years.

Other Proposed Changes
The committee will meet Wednesday to act on proposed amendments to:

1. Provide for issuance of callable bonds, rather than non-callable bonds, as now authorized in the bill. (Bratton.)

2. Require maturity schedule to run from 1940 to 1975, with bonds maturing during the first 15 years to be non-callable and those due after 15 years callable at par plus accrued interest. (By Gordon of Detroit.)

Atley Donald, Sensational Freshman Hurler, Talked Way Into Yanks' Camp

Louisiana Tech Product Traveled to St. Petersburg On His Own After Telling Scout He Wasn't Interested

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Service Sports Editor

CHICAGO.—When Atley Donald

chatted with the Browns with three hits in St. Louis the other afternoon for his eleventh consecutive victory without a defeat he became the first freshman flinger in major league history to perform the feat.

Only one other had copied as many as 10 in a row without a shellacking.

Harry Krause, a dapper southpaw who came out of California to the Athletics in 1908.

Five years ago Donald had to remind the Yankees that they promised to give him a chance.

The Louisiana Tech right-hander rode a bus on his own from Clarendon.

Atley Donald

He did not gain his first victory this season until he went in as a relief worker in Chicago, May 9.

Donald's Swift Pitch Scares Up on Batters

Donald has a sneaky fast ball that comes up to batters swifter than they think. He has a real good curve, but his fast ball is his most effective pitch. He can put something extra on it when in trouble. He doesn't get into streaks of wildness.

Atley Donald stands out as a pitcher who might easily shatter more records.

He now threatens to establish a new mark for successive victories by a Yankee pitcher. That record is 14 straight made by Jack Chesbro, the famous spitballer, in 1904, when the Yankees were the Highlanders.

The American League record for successive victories is 16 and is shared by them. They even got his name wrong, referring to him only when they had to as Donald Atley.

Wasn't Interested in Pro Ball At Outset

There is not another athlete with the Yankees who was not thoroughly scouted or tried before receiving a New York uniform.

Johnny New took a few looks at Donald in college in '33.

The Yankee scout-up man not only saw Walter Johnson, Smokey Joe Wood, Lefty Grove and Schoolboy Rowe.

A continuation of the Yankees' heavy hitting and tight defense play when Donald is in charge would constitute La. to St. Petersburg before the training season of 1934 got under way.

He worked in a grocery store while waiting for the advance guard of Yankees.

No one had ever heard of him and Joe McCarthy wasn't especially interested. But knowing from experience that the quickest and easiest way to get rid of persistent strangers is to give them a uniform and let them try, McCarthy gave Donald permission to join in the practice.

Baseball writers took only casual notice of the well-built youngster (mott.)

Sommerville and Coleman Turn in Victories for Hope Team

The Leo Robins softball team defeated the East Funeral Home team of Texarkana, 13 to 3, and 8 to 2, here Tuesday night.

Sommerville pitched the opening game for the Robins team and also led the batting attack, three for four.

Coop led the batting in the second game. Coleman batted the second game for Robins.

Boston Takes Two From White Sox

Lefty Grove Gains Tenth Victory With 8-Hit Performance

BOSTON.—(AP)—Suggested by plenty of home-run slugging, the Red Sox opened their longest home early of the season Tuesday by defeating the hard-punching Chicago White Sox twice, 3 to 2 and 6 to 3, before a 20,000 crowd.

The second game went 10 innings. It was the Sox's first double setback of the season and it dropped them to seven games behind the second-place Braves.

The veteran Lefty Grove gained his tenth win with an eight-hit performance in the opener, during which Manager Joe Cronin accounted for the first Boston run with his twelfth homer of the year and drove in the winning run after Ted Williams tripled in the eighth.

Twice the visitors came from behind to tie up the first game and they pulled into a 5-to-3 lead in the second game after Jimmy Foss hit his twentieth homer with Bobby Doerr aboard in the second inning. Clint Brown later relieved John Marenco and Doerr and Foss hit ninth-inning homers to tie the score. A pass to Cronin and singles by Joe Vascenic and Jim Tabor provided the winning run with none out in the tenth.

Donald had no difficulty in crashing the Yankee clubhouse after serving for the New York club in '37. He bagged 39 and lost two for the Bears in '38 and won 16 while losing seven last trip.

He did not gain his first victory this season until he went in as a relief worker in Chicago, May 9.

Bodcaw Man Dies of Heart Attack

Charles Fuller Succumbs After Field Day Program at CCC Camp

Charles Fuller, 70, of Bodcaw, died of a heart attack Tuesday afternoon while en route to Hope from the Alton CCC Camp, seven miles south of here.

Mr. Fuller had attended the Soil Conservation Field Day program and in company with a son, was en route to Hope when death occurred.

While in ordinary conversation with his son, who was driving his car, he suddenly slumped in his seat, death resulting almost instantly.

Funeral services were to be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Bodcaw, conducted by the Rev. T. L. Epton of Nashville.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, Leonard, Homer and George Fuller, and two daughters, Mrs. Cora Martin and Mrs. Louis Russell of Hope; three brothers, R. P. Fuller of the Shover Springs neighborhood, near Hope, and Marion and Marshall Fuller of Stamps.

W. M. Hart, 73, Dies at Home on Tuesday

Funeral Services for Well-Known Hope Man Held 10 a. m. Wednesday

W. M. Hart, 73, well-known Hope man, died Tuesday at his home on Highway 67 just east of Hope after an illness of eight weeks.

He was a deacon of First Baptist church of Hope and a member of the W. G. W. lodge. Born in Nevada county, Mr. Hart moved to Hope about 32 years ago and had made his home here since.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Wednesday from the family residence with the Rev. Fred R. Harrison of Arkadelphia, former pastor of First Methodist church of Hope, officiating. Burial followed in Rose Hill cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, two daughters, Mrs. A. D. Brannon and Mrs. S. L. Murphy both of Hope; two sons, Glenn Hart of Houston, Texas, and A. M. Hart of Pine Bluff.

Four brothers, Marion, Smith and John Hart of Nevada county, and Eddie Hart of Los Angeles, California; and one sister, Mrs. Oscar Steed of Elmhurst, Nevada county.

SERIAL STORY GHOST DETOUR

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, while Christine rode to Franklin, Dick saw her. He caught up, took her from her horse. At that moment the ghostly light faded. Christine stumbled. Dick started after her, but he remembers quite clearly a gun.

CHAPTER XVIII

ALMOST the entire party that day at Goldcrest, 60 or 70 persons in all, headed by Roselee, hastened down the cactus-studded slope to discover Richard Bancroft walking back toward them.

"DICK!" Roselee shrieked from afar.

The terrible fear that was intensified when she had heard Quail shooting lessened a bit now. At least Dick could walk!

She came running fast and without another word she was in his arms.

"What you need, little girl," he murmured, as he might have soothed a child, "is somebody to make you believe. You mustn't chase off after criminals that way, my lovely, Roselee girl!"

"Dick! Are you hurt?"

"No. Of course not. My horse was bouncing and twisting around the Joshua trees. I wasn't a good target for any pistol."

"But you—"

"That was a man named Quail, Roselee. Franklin got the dope on him in town. There's $2000 reward for him and the money he hid in your bank! I knew he'd come back, but I didn't expect him in broad daylight. And you—"

"—gosh, Roselee, you're a spunky kid!"

"Richard! . . . Dick!" She was trembling a little now, and looking up at him.

And then he dropped his arms, save for one around her shoulders, as he walked with her, because the crowd had arrived in a flurry of questions and excitement. Dick grinned happily at them.

"This man's back there on the ground," he explained, "I had to look him. Somebody please take him in charge. He's an escaped convict, a rascal!"

That excited all the tourists anew, and diverted their attention to Quail. The rushed to him in a body.

Mrs. Hogan had come belatedly to meet them now, and they walked back into the ghost town with her. Their first demands were about Christine and Franklin.

"Mister Franklin was hit in the leg," Mrs. Hogan said. "But I looked hasty at it and I don't believe it's much. He might've been killed. Whoever was it, honey? I declare, I never see such excitement!"

And the ore samples sent in for assay, Roselee, Dick was suddenly enthusiastic. "They mean plenty of money for you! The reports went to the big corporation by mistake, but they can't take the property from you. You own it entirely. Reworking the old ore I had in mind is good for $6 a ton, but remember that new stuff is worth around a hundred! No telling how much there is of it!"

"That was Mrs. Hogan's discovery," Roselee declared. "She saw the new gold streak in the rock there when she helped us out of the cave-in. But the money isn't all mine. We're all sharing this."

"No," Franklin said. "Goldcrest is your town. But I would like to keep my job if I can. I need it to get married on."

"You'll get the $2000 reward, too," said Roselee, smiling. "You and Christine and Dick. You certainly deserve it—goodness!"

They didn't say anything more for a long minute or so. Their young hearts were too full. Christine just sat, her slender legs folded under her, holding Franklin's hand and stroking his head lovingly. They were a little cramped in the rear of the sedan, although it was not uncomfortable because the pavement gave the car smooth rolling. Roselee was in front with Dick and turned often to talk with the others.

"Hurt bad, Frank?" Dick asked then, without turning.

"Not much. Not bleeding any more either."

"I am so—happy, about everything, I think I am—going to cry!" Christine said, and did cry right there with Franklin putting her and murmuring sweet things to her.

Now there is something magic about tears. And about love, too, of course.

They don't have to be your own tears, nor your own love necessarily. Other people's will affect you before you know it. Still, if you do have love in your own heart and if your own emotions have been straining, the magic is likely to be infinitely more potent and consequential.

Roselee didn't want to stare then at Christine and Franklin, so she turned around.

And as matter-of-factly as that, Dick Bancroft put his strong right arm around her and pulled her close, and she rested her head on his shoulder. He was not driving fast.

"Little girl!" he was murmuring, almost whispering. "Little girl. . . Little girl!"

For a long moment Roselee said nothing. Then she struggled closer to Dick and whispered back to him, "Dick, everything is so wonderful!"

"Yes," he said, his cheek touching her hair.

DICK was incredulous. Franklin had to be told all about that too. Dick said he moved the money because too many people knew it was in the old mine shaft; Mrs. Hogan had even told the cowboys and Indians, he had learned.

And the ore samples sent in for assay, Roselee, Dick was suddenly enthusiastic. "They mean plenty of money for you! The reports went to the big corporation by mistake, but they can't take the property from you. You own it entirely. Reworking the old ore I had in mind is good for $6 a ton, but remember that new stuff is worth around a hundred! No telling how much there is of it!"

Allay-oop! Says Fred

"Are Husbands Necessary?" is the title of Fred MacMurray's forthcoming picture, and here he seems to be proving that they are. resume her career. So she's selling everything and will live and make pictures in England. . . . Twentieth-Fox has dropped the "Mr. Moto" series because, though every effort was made to show the principal character simply as an Oriental, too many fans remember that he originally was a Japanese. This may bring a break for Peter Lorre, who too long has been out of good roles in top-notch pictures.

Really note: An office building in Glendale has been purchased, for $60,000 cash, by Ben Turpin, whose business vision has been a lot clearer and straighter than that of most old-time actors.

When a minor illness took Betty Davis out of "The Lady and the Knight" for a few days, another actress said a group of people at luncheon, "That shouldn't worry Warner. If they'd let me, I could take her place."

"Oh—you mean in the hospital?" asked a listener innocently.

On the other waves. On the night the contracts were signed, Joe received a wire. "Fly east," was the terse message, and Joe hopped a plane back.

He is on the platform now, tickling the ivories cheerily, as if nothing ever had happened.

Few branches of entertainment go with more assurance of the security of their craftsmen as the orchestral world.

The other day Guy Lombardo called in a luck insurance salesman and bought ten thousand dollar life policies for each member of his band—their wives and kin to be the beneficiaries.

Glenn Gray's Casa Loma Orchestra is a co-operative, in which each is a stockholder in the organization.

Horace Heidt conducts his orchestra with a baton and with a big executive's efficiency. Each member's financial status is secured by a vigilant controller and none is permitted to sink into mire of debt.

And Heidt also has a well-established welfare committee in the band which meets all emergencies with a plentiful cash reserve and personal aid.

Artie Shaw's orchestra hirings are required to put aside part of their earnings for a safety reserve and a health fund—against any emergency. And Paul Whiteman is equally solicitous of his own orchestra.

Why this should be so in the orchestral world is quickly apparent. There are more musicians than jobs and the problem of unemployment is keen, on and off Tin Pan Alley. So when employment is steady and the band becomes a well-knit unit, it is important to make hay while the sun shines.

A law forbids German cyclists to ride two abreast in busy streets and makes riding with only one hand on the handlebars a punishable offense.

Russian Sub Down in Arctic Ocean

But German Report of Northern Tragedy Is as Yet Unverified

BERLIN, Germany—(AP)—The fifth submarine disaster of the year was reported Tuesday by the newspaper Volkischer Beobachter which said a Soviet Russian ship had sunk off Murmansk in the Arctic ocean with 34 men aboard.

The report, which was not corroborated from any other source, said the submersible had collided with another ship during naval maneuvers and gone down in deep water where the depth and rough sea made rescue extremely difficult.

The newspaper said a diver had been able to make contact with those inside by pounding on the submarine's hull. The fleet maneuvers were immediately halted.

Volkischer Beobachter's account was under a "reports from Murmansk." No other German source had heard of the accident, and in Moscow no information was available from official Soviet circles.

If true, the disaster was the fifth of the year beginning with the loss of the Japanese submarine I-53 February 2 when 81 men went to their deaths.

The United States submarine Sculpin sank with a loss of 26 lives May 23, the British submarine Thetis went down June 1, with 99 dead men still in her hull, and the French submarine Phoenix sank off Cam Ranh Bay, French Indo-China, June 15, with 62 men aboard.

WPA Cost Partly Up to the States

Reduction in Work Likely When States Take Load January 1

WASHINGTON, July 26.—WPA officials said Wednesday that their study of the new relief act in operation indicated some states may curtail their projects materially after the first of the year, when they become responsible for 25 per cent of the cost.

Nearly 100 anti-aircraft guns, landed in Bombay, India, since the middle of April will be used to arm merchant vessels, in emergency. British ships here have had their decks rebuilt for gun-mounting.

HARRISON IN HOLLYWOOD

When Indians Cost Too Much, This Producer Made 'Em Half-Breeds

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—Short takes: A producer of cheap westerns has been obliged to pay local Indians $8.50 to work in character before his camera. But he got a bright idea for a new flicker—he's pay them only $4.25 a day and make 'em a band of halfbreeds.

And then there was the enthusiastic agent who was trying to sell a budding pianist to a big studio. "She's got the eyes of Hedy Lamarr, the mouth of Alice Faye, the figure of Ann Sheridan!" he told the executive. "She acts like Garbo, has the voice of Myrna Loy, dances like Ginger Rogers."

"I couldn't use her," squeaked the movie-maker. "If all those things are true, the girl's got no individuality!"

Central Casting, the agency through which all atmosphere and most bit players are hired, is a constant target for disgruntled charges of neglect and favoritism from some of the thousands of extras who don't get enough work. And sometimes actual threats are made over the telephone: "Some of us guys will come down there and clean out the joint," or "I'll kill myself—or somebody—if I don't get a job today."

So now the non-profit, co-operative agency, which already has several marvelous electrical contraptions to increase its efficiency, has installed a recording machine which can be switched on to preserve such threats. The records are being filed for possible future evidence.

Delayed Honeymoon
Clark and Carole Gable finally got away on that delayed honeymoon, and headed for Del Monte. But they'll swing right back to their valley ranch, clip the telephone wires, and resume their cherished chores of painting and planting and remodeling. . . . It may not mean anything more than business talk about community property, but Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers have been dining together lately.

Adrienne Ames is discouraged and disgusted with Hollywood, which wouldn't give her a fair chance to SHANGHAI.—(A)—Britain's agreement to recognize Japan's right-of-way in occupied Chinese areas failed to halt the spreading anti-British campaign in North China Tuesday. New British-Japanese friction developed in Shanghai.

Orders went out from the Japanese-sponsored political party at Peiping to branches in Shensi, Shantung, Hopchi and Honan provinces to tighten anti-British boycotts through the use of theaters, moving pictures, posters and cartoons.

Japanese at Tientsin said they would not help the blockade of the British and French concessions there until they saw how the British carried out their commitments.

In Shanghai, the British protested against detention of H. Reg, chief of Happiest man in the New York Department of Sanitation is Joseph Mazza. First to arrive at Santa Lodge with his family is the Greek-born, they are pictured above enjoying "the best vacation we've ever had." In fact so rapturous is Joe Mazza about the whole setup that he's continually overwhelmed with delight at what he and his family get for $12 a week. "Mazda," he says, "at least 20 to 60 centand they're good. And as far rooms, we have two bedrooms, one bathroom, kitchen, living room, dining room, and a bath. We says, "just from 20 to 60 cents and they're good. And as far rooms, we'll stay here all night long. It must be nice to have a lot of money and live like this all the time."

International Settlement Municipal Council's Public Health Department.

On the advice of the Japanese-controlled Shanghai municipality held Ross, 100 Chinese and a Russian—all employees of the department—by order of the Chinese mayor. The Shanghai regime is reported to have threatened to hold them until the International Settlement paid arrears for garbage collecting privileges.

The Chinese press termed "another British-British" agreement to keep out of the way of the Japanese army in China. It said Britain would be "kind of" violating the Nine-Power pledge respecting respect for China's integrity if she followed her "free trade" policy.

At Chungking Gen. Chiang Kai-shek said Britain could make no concessions which do not conflict with the Nine-Power and provisions of the Nine-Power pact.

Customs receipts for the port of Hankow, N. C., in June were $32,430, a decrease of $65,675 over the total value 1938.

Republicans from eight southwestern Arkansas counties will hold a group meeting at Hope city hall at 1:30 p. m. Friday, July 28. It was announced Wednesday by W. M. Brummet, Hempstead county chairman.

Several state officers from Little Rock will attend the Hope meeting which will be a round table discussion of 1940 plans and aims.

Counties included in the group meeting and committeemen are as follows:

Hempstead—A. L. Carlson of Hope, committeeman.

Nevada—J. K. Prescott of Elmet, committeeman.

Lafayette—Dr. F. W. Youmans of Lewisville, committeeman.

Miller—E. E. Hudspeth of Texarkana, committeeman.

Little River—Roy W. Stevens of Ashdown, committeeman.

Howard—Rector H. Pate of Center Point, committeeman.

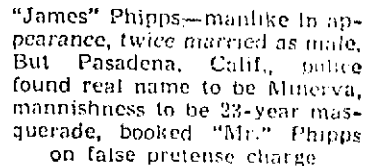

Pike—Howard A. Miller of Murfreesboro, committeeman.

Sevier—Floyd M. Carter of DeQueen, committeeman.

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Chris Wheaton, Hope negro arsonist sentenced to a year in prison July 11 for burning an Ashdown hotel, must serve an additional five years, Governor Bailey decreed Tuesday.

The executive revoked a furlough granted Wheaton in 1935 after he had served one year of a six-year sentence for arson in connection with the destruction of a cotton gin near Warren.

Josephine's picture always was worn by Napoleon over his heart. Once when the glass over it was broken, he paled and cried that she either was unfaithful or ill.

The Rev. Levi Compton and the Rev. C. G. Bennett will begin a week's revival at the New Hope church two miles north of Patmos schoolhouse Sunday at 11 a. m. The public is invited.

Here are some rules for the dog in summer: water changed twice a day; all pans washed out well every day; frequent bathing; a cool place to sleep; exercise in the cooler parts of the day; no feeding when exhausted. Also, no food should consist of meats, raw as

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator Holt of West Virginia Democrat, said Wednesday he had decided to withhold introduction of an anti-third-term resolution until the opening days of the 1936 session of congress.

Holt explained he was influenced by the counsel of older party members who felt senate action might involve a challenge to President Roosevelt to seek a third term when he had given no indication of following this course.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is sent flowing freely, your food doesn't "digest" it just because in the bowels. Gas builds up in your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and your feet soon sink and the world looks punk.

A men's magazine says, "Don't get a liver ailment. It takes three roads, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel 'up and up.'" Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cent
